Reinforced German Troops Reported Counter-Attacking Soviet Forces Driving Toward Latvia as Red Army Poises for Knockout Blows Against Important White Russian Communication Centers.

MOSCOW, July 8—(INS)—Front line dispatches said today that the main Leningrad-Warsaw railway had been effectively severed when it was brought under Soviet artillery fire northeast of Wilno.

I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

MOSCOW, July 8—(INS)—Reinforced German troops were reported today to be counter-attacking Soviet forces driving toward Latvia as the Red Army was poised for knockout blows against the important White Russian communication centers of Wilno and Baranovich.

Pravda, Communist party newspaper, said that strong counter-attacks have been launched east of the Latvian border. The Nazis brought up reserves to the northern bank of the Drissa river, and hurled their counter-blows with support of "a large number" of mobile guns.

The Drissa already had been forced by the Russians north and northwest of Polotsk.

The threat to Baranovich increased as Red Army siege guns opened up against the Nazi defenders from some four miles away from the city, while 100 miles north other powerful Soviet mobile columns smashed ahead in the face of stubborn enemy resistance on the other approaches to Wilno and Lithuania.

HERE AND THERE IN BUCKS COUNTY TOWNS

Activities of Interest To All In The Various Communities

GLEANED BY SCRIBES

Balancing the 1943-44 budget within 2½ per cent of the estimated expenditures, the Doylestown school board on Monday night reported that the balance amounted to $3,035.91. The total amount of the budget was $128,723.76 and the total expenditures, $125,687.85. The largest amount of the saving was made in the "capital outlay" account, a sum of $2,529.90. The largest deficit, $807.77, occurred in the "operation account" due to an adjustment of water and sewer bills.

Raymond Brunner was elected by Sellersville borough council to fill the unexpired term of Councilman Frank B. Jackson, who is now serving in the Navy. He was elected by acclamation with no dissenting vote.

Two other appointments were made by Council during the meeting. Allen Weidemeyer and Robert Allison were named as guards at the United States Gauge plant.

Lawrence Braymer, Lahaska artist, has returned from the Oliver General Hospital, Augusta, Ga., where he spent two weeks making 35 life-sized portraits of seriously wounded servicemen recently returned from the battlefronts.

John Karl, 85, died in the Doylestown Emergency Hospital, Monday, a little more than three hours after he had been found suspended by a rope fashioned with binder twine at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Warden.

Mr. Karl, a native of Germany, it is alleged, on a number of occasions had threatened to take his life. Some time during the morning the aged man fashioned the rope, tied it to a guywire on the guard rail fence along the pike and fashioned the noose around his neck.

The noose apparently slipped from his position, because when the man was found by his daughter, Mrs. Anna May Warden, it was around the nape of the neck.

It is believed the aged man, whose wife is dead, hung there about an hour before he was found by his daughter. A physician directed that the man be taken to the Doylestown Emergency Hospital. Admitted about 10:30 o'clock he died about one o'clock.

Deputy Coroner Raymond D. Tice, M. D., Quakertown, who was summoned, issued a certificate of death by strangulation due to hanging.

KISSES MAKE THINGS SUGARY AT EDDINGTON

Workmen at Penna. Salt Mfg. Co. Plant Buy Bonds, Get Reward

AID 5TH LOAN DRIVE

EDDINGTON, July 8—It was a sugary day at the salt works when the noon hour arrived yesterday. The workmen puckered their lips—not from too much salt—but because it was the "kissinest" day they had seen hereabouts for a long time.

The men of the Pennsylvania Salt Manufacturing Co. bought war bonds as an aid to the Fifth War Loan Drive, and in return had their choice of kissing any one of a quartet of beauties—two blondes and two brunettes.

Some found the "patriotic urge" much, much too strong, and felt they should buy four or five bonds—but that was alright with the committee, and O. K. by the girls.

Assured that no one would "snitch" on them as far as their wives were concerned, the men quickly became interested, and around the afternoon much cooler to work in after their temperature and subsided.

The "kissesses" were Bessie Kaye, Lee Warwick, Eleanor Russell, and Berta Carey, who were accompanied to the platform beside the patriotically decorated bond booth near the entrance by Carmen Torrente.

The total bond sales yesterday at the local plant was $4,950. The amount of bond sales to date by "Carmen's Bond Wagon" is $15,000.

Mrs. E. Paul Patton, chairman of the bond drive in Bensalem township, opened the program following patriotic numbers which had been amplified. She called upon Henry Nasby, service supervisor of the Pennsylvania Salt Mfg. Co. Mr. Nasby, who has aided in all bond

LEGAL BATTLE LOOMS OVER THE NAME OF BUSINESS

David Landreth Defendant In Suit Filed by D. Landreth Seed Company

WANTS HIS PROFITS

Action Would Also Prohibit Him From Using His Present Business Name

(By International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, July 8—The D. Landreth Seed Company, Bristol, which claims to be the oldest vegetable and flower seed company in America, and a former president, David Landreth, both of whom are now engaged in the same kind of business in Bristol, Pa., are embroiled in a bitter legal battle in the United States District Court in Philadelphia over Landreth going into business under his own name right after he quit the company in April 1941.

The company accuses its former executive of trying to trade on the renown of the name of "Landreth" for growing vegetable and flower seeds and other agricultural and horticultural products and with "confusing and deceiving" the public into believing his is the ancestral business founded by his great-grandfather, David Landreth, 160 years ago. One of the results of this "confusion," the company asserts is that many people have dealt with David Landreth thinking they were dealing with the company which took over the family business.

The company is asking the court to compel the former president to use some other name than Landreth for his business, and in addition to pay over to the Landreth corporation all of the profits he has made since he went into business more than three years ago, and furthermore to pay damages for the allegedly improper use of the name Landreth in what is said to be unfair competition with the company.

Landreth has retaliated by filing a motion through counsel, for dismissal of the suit, arguing that he has a right to use his own name in business. His counsel, State Senator Howard I. James, Esq., of Bristol, and the law firm of Rambo, Rambo & Knox, of Philadelphia, contend in the motion there is no law depriving a man of the right to use his own name in business.

No date has been set for a hearing in the case. The next step will be disposition of Landreth's motion to dismiss the case. If it is granted that will end the matter, unless an appeal is taken by the company. If the dismissal is refused a hearing will be held on the "merits" of the company's contentions that the former president is engaged in unfair trade practices.

The company's suit is under the Federal copyright and trademark laws. It claims it is the only one with the right to use the name "Landreth" in connection with the production and distribution of vegetable and flower seeds and agricultural and horticultural products.

TRUTH NOT TO BE DENIED

It has been the stern Nazi attitude of late to regard all home-
front defeatists as traitors. Covert
gags in barrooms might get by,
but any German who openly
avowed his settled belief that victory was a vain hope was likely
to become a dead duck.

It is strange, therefore, to read
that Rear Admiral Richard Gadow, retired naval officer, has
declared the German navy is finished and now is "in process of reorganization." Gadow must know whereof he speaks with apparent impunity.

Writing in the Deutsche Allge-
meine Zeitung, the retired Nazi
admiral, who is rated the principal spokesman for the German
navy, said the answer to the question "where are our U-boats and
heavy warships?" was that they were at the bottom of the sea. The German submarine had great success until 1943 "when technical
defenses of the enemy put an end
to these achievements." Admiral
Gadow further explained.

This is defeatist talk, for U-
boat warfare had long been advertised to the German people and
to the world as the Reich's major insurance policy for victory. In this as in the last war it came
nearer presenting an insurmount-
able obstacle to Allied success
than the once rampant Luftwaffe
or even the might of the German
armies.

Had it proved successful, the Allies would not have had any
considerable fighting chance of
pitting their man strength against
that of German arms. Yet the U-boat has been downed by Allied resourcefulness as Admiral Gadow said, to the bottom of the
sea, along with the Scharnhorst
and other proud raiders of the Germans' impressive but limited
fleet.

The Luftwaffe is not yet finished as a German defensive force.
Much less is the far-flung Wehrmacht finished, but reorganization definitely is indicated for
both. In the Reich, the Nazi wolf
has long tried to keep the truth
from the door, but its light is
beginning to shine through the chinks in the woodwork. The more realistic Germans are admitting it.

SEEK FARM LOANS

Emphasizing the rapid come-
back farms can make in the United States when the nation is engaged in the greatest war in
history is the record of farm
financing by American life insurance companies. Ten years ago
life insurance firms were trying
to liquidate their land holdings,
which had soared to an all-time
peak.

Now life insurance companies
are grabbing eagerly at farm
mortgages. At the height of the depression life insurance firms
had a billion dollars in farm land taken in on foreclosures. This investment today stands at $200,
000,000 and it is still decreasing.
Today life insurance companies
hold mortgages against farm
lands totaling $820,000,000. They placed $60,000,000 in farm mortgages in the last year.

Today's Quiet Moment

By the Rev. Arthur D. Sargis
Pastor
Eddington Presbyterian Church

Dear Father we thank Thee for this week which is rapidly coming to a close. May we have the courage to examine ourselves. We have failed in the important business of Christian living. Forgive us, Thou art the same today as yesterday. We thank Thee for the constancy of Thy love and care. May we remember Thee this week-end and as we resolve to close this week with Thee may we open the new week with a prayer that in Christ we shall rise to new levels of Christian character and service. We pray in Jesus' name. Amen.

FLEETWINGS NINE NOW STEP NEARER TO SECOND PLACE

Local Nine Defeats Case
Packers of The Trenton
Industrial League

FINAL SCORE IS 16 TO 7

Leone, Bloom and Ludwig Lead Attack Against
Trenton Hurlers

TRENTON, July 8.—The Fleetwings Arrows moved a step closer to second place in the Trenton Industrial League last evening by defeating the Case Packers, 16-7, on Wetzell field. It was the fourth straight win for the Bristol aircraft workers.

Leading the attack against the two Trenton hurlers, Mess and McCloskey, were Nick Leone, Mike Bloom, and Barney Ludwig. Leone had a home run in the third with one on base and followed with a double in the seventh. Bloom cracked out a home run with the bases bare in the second while Ludwig tripled with two on in the third.

The Wingers scored their runs in sets of five, hitting this figure in the third, fourth and seventh innings, the team batted around. The Bristol boys were aided by seven errors committed by the Packers and loose hurling.

Lonnie Heister did the pitching for the winners and after the third had things his own way. He loosened up in the fifth to be pounded for a trio of runs but the big five in the seventh assured him of a triumph.

Joe Giovacchini had a home run with two on in the fifth and also had a double to his credit to lead the Packers with the stick.

Tomorrow afternoon, Rohm and Haas meets Eastern Aircraft on the Trenton field.

Legal Battle Looms Over Name of Business

and its petition states that only once before has anyone tried to use the name "Landreth" in connection with the trading of any of these products. The other instance was in 1883 when a man named Albert Landreth undertook to use his own name in connection with the distribution of early peas in Wisconsin and was forbidden by the federal courts of that state from using a label or an inscription that resembled in any way that used by the seed-growing firm.

The bill of particulars filed by the Landreth company asserts that its sales have been "seriously interfered with" and its trade reputation "endangered" by David Landreth's use of his own name in the same kind of business, because many people are misled into believing that when they have dealings with him that they are dealing with the old-established company.

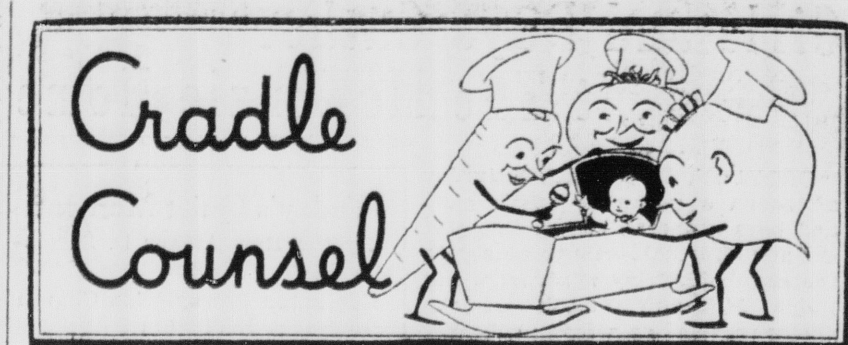

The company's petition gives an interesting account of the history, but does not explain why David Landreth resigned from the company in April 1941 after he had been its president for one year.

He was connected with it for 35 years before he resigned, going with it in 1906 and leaving it in 1941. In the interval he was assistant secretary, then secretary and assistant treasurer and finally its president.

For 129 years the business was operated by members of the Landreth family, in partnerships, passing from generation to generation. There were several David Landreths in the numerous partnerships. The business was incorporated in 1904 and for the past 70 years has been located in Bristol.

Immediately after resigning as president and severing all connections with the corporation, David, the complaint says, set up his own business in Bristol, using his own name, with the result that customers of the corporation, and prospective customers, and the public generally, were unable to distinguish between his and the company's business and many dealt with him thinking they were dealing with the corporation.

The plaintiff company says in its complaint that it "served timely notice and warning" that its being in business under the name of David Landreth, which was the title earlier partnerships had used in the business, was leading to "confusion and deceit" and requested him to identify his business under some other name so that people would have a clear understanding of whom they were doing business with, but he disregarded these requests and "apparently" intends to continue doing business as David Landreth which results only in unfair competition with the company.

By JEAN MERRITT Institute

Our age has seen some miraculous developments in medicine. We've learned of anti-toxins, blood transfusions, plastic surgery, insulin, the sulphur drugs, and now the fabulous penicillin. These milestones have made headlines; for each has stirred the hearts and hopes of all mankind.

But side by side with these spectacular discoveries another kind of miracle has been developing... the quiet, patient, unpublicized research in baby care and growth. Not the dramatic discoveries that save lives already threatened with disaster, but the gradually increasing skill and understanding that have built stronger new lives for the future.

Many men have helped to make this miracle. Sometimes it was the country doctor—plodding all day and half the night with his horse and buggy—spanking the breath into every new baby in the county. Sometimes it was the city man who saw the terrible urgency of this need in crowded urban quarters, and so began to specialize in baby problems. Often it was the industrial scientist... the commercial research man with the resources of business behind him and the time and equipment to devote exclusively to the task, who developed many new techniques of baby care.

From these laboratory men, in particular, has come much of our progress in the feeding of strained foods to babies. Working on fellowships at the great institutes of industrial research, these scientists perfected their own methods of preparing, cooking, and packing strained baby foods. They experimented with many kinds of fruits, cereals, vegetables, meats. They worked with agronomists to develop new and higher qualities of strains.

They learned to reduce the texture of these foods to a velvet smoothness by putting them through the finest kinds of sieves; so that babies' delicate digestive tracts could handle this new type of food more easily. To retain the highest possible nutritional value in these foods sealed up in cans, industrial scientists perfected new methods of packing foods under pressure. And they ran endless feeding tests to prove the true worth of their experiments before releasing these foods for babies' meals. Now all prepared, ready-to-serve strained foods follow the specifications laid down by these scientists.

Such truly scientific control from seed to seal, has made the development of strained foods one of the outstanding industrial contributions to modern baby welfare.

according to the complaint.

The company's petition asserts that David Landreth's "unfair and unlawful acts are calculated to deceive and have deceived the public and customers and prospective customers of the plaintiff (the corporation) and enable him to pass off his business and seeds and products as those of the plaintiff."

The company's attorneys are George J. Harding and Frederic L. Clark, of Philadelphia, who specialize in copyright, trademark and patent infringement matters.

If the company should win the case, the amount of the profits it would recover from David Landreth and the punitive damages it would be awarded would be determined later either by a judge of the court or a special master who would first analyze the business accounts of David Landreth to ascertain the extent of his transactions with customers.

drives conducted at the plant, in turn introduced Mrs. Patton's nephew, Robert Smith, Engine Room Artificer, of the Canadian Navy. The naval officer, whose home is in Vancouver, B. C., has made a number of trips to Alaskan outposts in the Aleutians, impressed upon all the need of buying bonds, in order that this war might be won by the Allies.

Then the bond selling commenced with kisses as rewards. Mrs. Patton assuring the men "We won't tell a soul." During this part of the program, Miss Warwick served as mistress of ceremonies at the microphone.

The first purchaser, who chose a blonde, in receiving his reward, was also favored with an extra kiss by one other young woman on the program for being sufficiently brave to start the ball rolling.

Next came a tall, dark, slender workman, whose straw hat provided shade for him and his chosen brunette. With the courage of most red-haired people, the third chap purchased five bonds, one each for rewards from the four young women selected as "kisses" and one for the chairman of the drive.

One former soldier, wounded in action, claimed his turn, but by his actions belied his words that it was "embarrassing." Another generous fellow purchased four bonds, took one kiss, and announced that he would give the privilege of the other three kisses to three other men. At this one bashful young man was chased the equivalent of a city block by a member of the committee, but proved too swift on his feet.

At this juncture the first bond purchaser decided things had been so pleasant that he should buy another bond, and claimed his second kiss.

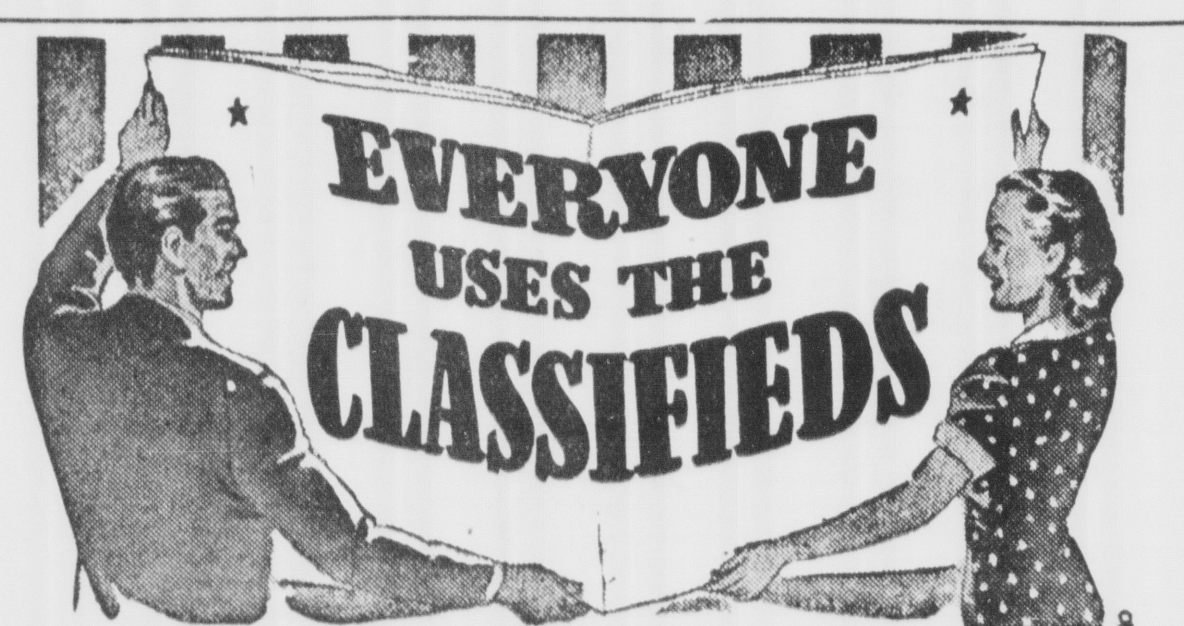

At the conclusion of a vocal number, "Butcher Boy," by Mr. Torrente, aided by the four "kisses," the latter group made their way to the bond booth to sign up individuals for additional bond purchases.

MAIN LENINGRAD-WARSAW RAILWAY IS SEVERED BY THE SOVIET FORCES; STRONG ARTILLERY FIRE AT WILNO

Reinforced German Troops Reported Counter-Attacking Soviet Forces Driving Toward Latvia as Red Army Poises for Knockout Blows Against Important White Russian Communication Centers.

MOSCOW, July 8.—(INS)—Front line dispatches said today that the main Leningrad-Warsaw railway had been effectively severed when it was brought under Soviet artillery fire northeast of Wilno.

By Natalia Rene I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

MOSCOW, July 8.—(INS)—Reinforced German troops were reported today to be counter-attacking Soviet forces driving toward Latvia as the Red Army was poised for knock-out blows against the important White Russian communication centers of Wilno and Baranovich.

Pravda, Communist party newspaper, said that strong counter-attacks have been launched east of the Latvian border. The Nazis brought up reserves to the northern bank of the Drissa river, and hurled their counter-blows with support of "a large number" of mobile guns.

The Drissa already had been forced by the Russians north and northwest of Polotsk.

The threat to Baranovich increased as Red Army siege guns opened up against the Nazi defenders from some four miles away from the city, while 100 miles north other powerful Soviet mobile columns smashed ahead in the face of stubborn enemy resistance on the other approaches to Wilno and Lithuania.

Balancing the 1943-44 budget within 2 1/2 per cent of the estimated expenditures, the Doylestown school board on Monday night reported that the balance amounted to $3,935.91. The total amount of the budget was $128,723.76 and the total expenditures, $124,787.85. The largest amount of the saving was made in the "capital outlay" account, a sum of $2,529.90. The largest deficit, $807.77, occurred in the "operation account" due to an adjustment of water and sewer bills.

Raymond Brunner was elected by Sellersville borough council to fill the unexpired term of Councilman Frank B. Jackson, who is now serving in the Navy. He was elected by acclamation with no dissenting vote.

Two other appointments were made by Council during the meeting. Allen Weidemeyer and Robert Allison were named as guards at the United States Gaugage plant.

Lawrence Braymer, Lahaska artist, has returned from the Oliver General Hospital, Augusta, Ga., where he spent two weeks making 35 life-sized portraits of seriously wounded servicemen recently returned from the battlefronts.

John Karl, 85, died in the Doylestown Emergency Hospital, Monday, a little more than three hours after he had been found suspended by a rope fashioned with binder twine at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Warden.

Mr. Karl, a native of Germany, it is alleged, on a number of occasions had threatened to take his life. Some time during the morning the aged man fashioned the rope, tied it to a guywire on the guard rail fence along the pike and fashioned the noose around his neck.

The noose apparently slipped from its position, because when the man was found by his daughter, Mrs. Anna May Warden, it was around the nape of the neck.

It is believed the aged man, whose wife is dead, hung there about an hour before he was found by his daughter. A physician directed that the man be taken to the Doylestown Emergency Hospital. Admitted about 10:30 o'clock he died about one o'clock.

Deputy Coroner Raymond D. Tice, M. D., Quakertown, who was summoned, issued a certificate of death by strangulation due to hanging.

KISSES MAKE THINGS SUGARY AT EDDINGTON

Workmen at Penna. Salt Mfg. Co. Plant Buy Bonds, Get Reward

AID 5TH LOAN DRIVE

EDDINGTON, July 8.—It was a sugary day at the salt works when the noon hour arrived yesterday. The workmen puckered their lips, not from too much salt—but because it was the "kissinest" day they had seen hereabouts for a long time.

The men of the Pennsylvania Salt Manufacturing Co. bought war bonds as an aid to the Fifth War Loan Drive, and in return had their choice of kissing any one of a quartet of beauties—two blondes and two brunettes.

Some found the "patriotic urge" much, much too strong, and felt they should buy four or five bonds—but that was alright with the committee, and O. K. by the girls.

Assured that no one would "snitch" on them as far as their wives were concerned, the men quickly became interested, and found the afternoon much cooler to work in after their temperature had subsided.

The "kissers" were Beatrice Kaye, Lee Warwick, Eleanor Russell, and Berta Carey, who were accompanied to the platform beside the patriotically decorated bond booth near the entrance by Carmen Torrente.

The total bond sales yesterday at the local plant was $4,550. The amount of bond sales to date by "Carmen's Bond Wagon" is $15,000.

Mrs. E. Paul Patton, chairman of the bond drive in Bensalem township, opened the program following patriotic numbers which had been amplified. She called upon Henry Nash, service supervisor of the Pennsylvania Salt Mfg. Co. Mr. Nash, who has aided in all bond drives, continued on Page Four.

GOVERNOR TO BE IN IT

PHILADELPHIA, July 8.—Tuesday, October 24th, designated as "William Penn Day" in Governor Martin's proclamation asking State-wide observance of this 300th anniversary of the birth of Pennsylvania's great Quaker founder and proprietor, will be marked with impressive meetings to climax a series of events in churches, schools, and by historic, patriotic and civic organizations.

Announcement of the program now being outlined by the State William Penn Tercentenary Committee appointed by the governor, was made today by the chairman, Charles F. Jenkins, of Germantown. Governor Martin is honorary chairman, and the Pennsylvania Historical Commission is co-operating with the committee.

Official headquarters of the committee have been opened in the Pennsylvania Historical Society, 1399 Locust street, Philadelphia. Representatives of the most important institutions of Philadelphia Quakerdom also are working actively on plans for the tercentenary observance. The Friends work will center at 304 Arch street, with executive committee meetings held at 1515 Cherry street.

The largest public meeting will be called in the Academy of Music on Tuesday evening, October 24th, when statesmen of America and Great Britain will join with the governors of three states to pay homage to the English-born Quaker whose crusade for religious liberty and political justice in the old world, had such significant results in the new.

Lord Halifax, British Ambassador to the United States, will deliver an address; talks will be given by governors of the three American commonwealths which Penn founded or help to found—Governor Edward Martin for Pennsylvania; Governor Walter E. Edge for New Jersey and Governor Walter W. Bacon, of Delaware.

On the afternoon of October 24th, a program honoring Penn will be given in the Friends Meeting House, Fourth and Arch Sts., under the auspices of the two Philadelphia yearly meetings of the Religious Society of Friends. Thomas Raeburn, Continued on Page Four.

LEGAL BATTLE LOOMS OVER THE NAME OF BUSINESS

David Landreth Defendant In Suit Filed by D. Landreth Seed Company

WANTS HIS PROFITS

Action Would Also Prohibit Him From Using His Present Business Name

(By International News Service) PHILADELPHIA, July 8.—The D. Landreth Seed Company, Bristol, which claims to be the oldest vegetable and flower seed company in America, and a former president, David Landreth, both of whom are now engaged in the same kind of business in Bristol, Pa., are embroiled in a bitter legal battle in the United States District Court in Philadelphia over Landreth going into business under his own name right after he quit the company in April 1941.

The company accuses its former executive of trying to trade on the renown of the name of "Landreth" for growing vegetable and flower seeds and other agricultural and horticultural products and with "confusing and deceiving" the public into believing his is the ancestral business founded by his great-great grandfather, David Landreth, 160 years ago. One of the results of this "confusion," the company asserts is that many people have dealt with David Landreth thinking they were dealing with the company which took over the family business.

The company is asking the court to compel the former president to use some other name than Landreth for his business, and in addition to pay over to the Landreth corporation all of the profits he has made since he went into business more than three years ago, and furthermore to pay damages for the allegedly improper use of the name Landreth in what is said to be unfair competition with the company.

Landreth has retaliated by filing a motion through counsel, for dismissal of the suit, arguing that he has a right to use his own name in business. His counsel, State Senator Howard I. James, Esq., of Bristol, and the law firm of Rambo, Rambo & Knox, of Philadelphia, contend in the motion there is no law depriving a man of the right to use his own name in business.

No date has been set for a hearing in the case. The next step will be disposition of Landreth's motion to dismiss the case. If it is granted that will end the matter, unless an appeal is taken by the company. If the dismissal is refused a hearing will be held on the "merits" of the company's contentions that the former president is engaged in unfair trade practices.

The company's suit is under the Federal copyright and trademark laws. It claims it is the only one with the right to use the name "Landreth" in connection with the production and distribution of vegetable and flower seeds and agricultural and horticultural products.

WHAT OUR BOYS ARE DOING TO WIN THE WAR

WITH THE FIFTH ARMY IN ITALY, July 8.—When Private 1st Class Pasquale Minni, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carman Minni, 433 Washington St., Bristol, Pennsylvania, was winning jitterbug contests back home, never did he dream that someday he would be winning gruesome infantry contests as a Fifth Army soldier in Italy.

The former Bristol High School student, a rifleman, recently shared in killing one German and capturing three others.

The Pennsylvania infantryman, now with the 35th "Custer" Division, quit dancing to tote a rifle December 2, 1942.

TRUTH NOT TO BE DENIED

It has been the stern Nazi attitude of late to regard all home-
front defeatists as traitors. Covert
gags in barrooms might get by,
but any German who openly
avowed his settled belief that victory was a vain hope was likely
to become a dead duck.

It is strange, therefore, to read
that Rear Admiral Richard
Gadow, retired naval officer, has
declared the German navy is finished and now is "in process of reorganization." Gadow must
know whereof he speaks with ap-
parent impunity.

Writing in the Deutsche Allge-
meine Zeitung, the retired Nazi
admiral, who is rated the principal spokesman for the German
navy, said the answer to the question "where are our U-boats and
heavy warships?" was that they were at the bottom of the sea. The German submarine had great success until 1943 "when technical
defenses of the enemy put an end
to these achievements." Admiral
Gadow further explained.

This is defeatist talk, for U-
boat warfare had long been advertised to the German people and
to the world as the Reich's major
insurance policy for victory. In
this as in the last war it came
nearer presenting an insurmount-
able obstacle to Allied success
than the once rampant Luftwaffe
or even the might of the German
armies.

Had it proved successful, the Allies would not have had any
considerable fighting chance of
pitting their man strength against
that of German arms. Yet the U-boat has been downed by Allied resourcefulness as Admiral Gadow said, to the bottom of the
sea, along with the Scharnhorst
and other proud raiders of the
fleet.

The Luftwaffe is not yet finished as a German defensive force. Much less is the far flung Wehrmacht finished, but reorganization definitely is indicated for
both. In the Reich, the Nazi wolf
has long tried to keep the truth
from the door, but its light is
beginning to shine through the chinks in the woodwork. The
more realistic Germans are admitting it.

SEEK FARM LOANS

Emphasizing the rapid come-
back farms can make in the United States when the nation is
engaged in the greatest war in
history is the record of farm
financing by American life insurance companies. Ten years ago
life insurance firms were trying
to liquidate their land holdings,
which had soared to an all-time
peak.

Now life insurance companies
are grabbing eagerly at farm
mortgages. At the height of the
depression life insurance firms
had a billion dollars in farm lands
taken in on foreclosures. This investment today stands at $200,
000,000 and it is still decreasing.
Today life insurance companies
hold mortgages against farm
lands totaling $820,000,000. They placed $60,000,000 in farm mortgages in the last year.
